<http://trueblueline.net/about/>

True Blue Line is a website created by a small group of volunteers posting news stories and opinions about emergency services for emergency services. Focussing mainly on Australia, Canada, New Zealand, United Kingdom, and United States.

We are mainly operating on social media: TrueBlueLine (Twitter), OneWallForAll (Twitter) and on Facebook.

We are here for all first responders and all things that matter:

- Recruitment, wages and fair employment policies
- Training, and workplace safety
- Physical fitness and mental health
- Non-political, inclusive to all
- Promoting fundraisers for emergency services workers and their families
- Crime prevention, community engagement, public safety announcements
- Major crime news and technology developments
- Contributing to the One Wall For All campaign - to immortalise all officers who took their own lives on the National Police Memorial
- Publishing Australian Police notices – printable documents featuring missing and wanted persons, and any other matters Australian Police need assistance with.
- Working with agencies to increase their social media presence and promoting inter-agency discussions

Thank you for being with us all along this journey and thank you for all the hard work you do.
