

NSW Police Get An All-Clear On Guns In Courts

by Mac - Tuesday, August 04, 2015

<http://trueblueline.net/2015/08/nsw-police-get-an-all-clear-on-guns-in-courts/>

Police officers will be able to carry their guns into NSW courtrooms from next week, amid heightened terrorism fears.

Police Minister Troy Grant announced a new protocol on Tuesday that allows officers to wear their weapons while giving evidence or briefing prosecutors inside court complexes without having to seek special permission from the judiciary.

"This is a common sense approach at a time our nation faces a high terror alert and when we've seen police overseas become terror targets themselves," Mr Grant said.

Read more in The Mercury.