Support Websites

Australian Police

Unofficial Police Site for Australian Police which, at this time, is mainly aimed at the State of New South Wales Australia. This Site is not Affiliated with the NSW Police Force or any other State or Territory Police Forces in any way.

Memorial

National Police Memorial

The National Police Memorial website holds all approved information relating to the Memorial's construction, dedication and ongoing use. It includes a news section, fact sheets, media releases and a photo gallery for media downloads. It will also carry links to all Australian Police Associations/Unions, State, Territory and Federal Police Departments, the National Capital Authority and Canberra Tourism, as well as links to International Police Memorials.

Wall to Wall Ride

With the National Police Memorial as a focal point and highlighting the positive image of police in the promotion of motorcycle safety and awareness, this has now become a much anticipated annual charity event in commemoration of the service and sacrifice of our police and for each of the State's to raise much needed funds in support of their police charity organisations.

Each of the Australian Police Forces has a dedicated place of remembrance and reflection, where they pay homage to and remember their police officers who have died as a result of their service to the community. From these sites a very special journey begins with the intention of arriving at the outskirts of our national capital to meet and join the other contingents of riders from across Australia.

In a final gesture of police solidarity and remembrance, the ride travels through Canberra to the National Police Memorial for a poignant ceremony to commence the week in honour of our colleagues and mates; their names recorded on the touch stones of the memorial wall.

History

NT Police Museum and Historical Society

Preserving the rich history of the Northern Territory Police.

Western Australia Police Historical Society

Very few people in Western Australia know much about the history of their police service. When did it begin? What type of work did the pioneer police officers do? How did they carry out their duties in the remote areas of the Colony/State? How did they live? And so on. The Western Australia Police Historical Society has been formed to research and preserve this history.
